

Book Review

The story 'The Gift of the Magi' is written by O. Henry and collected from "100 Selected Stories". The title of very suitable title for this story as both of Della & Jim were wise in giving and receiving the gifts, as a Magi of course he doesn't receive the gift but he gave it to the Babe in the manger. Hence we can tell that it was the suitable title for the story.

Henry's writing style is simple and easily understandable by almost all types of readers, and this is a heartfelt story of him. In this story he directly touches the hearts of readers with the love and affection of a middle class wife and husband. Of course, may be middle class or from poor the love and affection between them are undefined.

Giving a view to the story the having of that couple and their $8 flat, electric button and name board and without having

If he looks at her he would compare her with a "coney Island chorus girl". Hence she was humorous and very talkative according to the situation giving of gifts and taking the gift of costly comes from Jim reveals that she was talkative according to the situation.

Coming to the character of Jim Full name is "James Billingham Young" He was thin and poor fellow with a small age of twenty two years but burdened with a family. His appearance telling that he was poor but his affect for her wife was countless and precious as first he was very pride of his watch ~~given~~ by his father and his grandfather. But later when he was in need of money for buying a Christmas gift for her wife he sold it and purchased the set of combs for the beautiful hair of her wife.

In this both of them were full of love on the others and sacrificed their glours and the new coat and saving the money and pennies one & two from grocers and from other sources telling us that they are poor or of middle class.

But they have mighty pride of two things that are Della's hair and Jim's watch as of ancestral property. But they sacrificed both for the happiness of others. Hence all who give gifts these two were the wisest.

Coming to the character Della is a good looking girl of a little age as Jim was only 22. Della is very wise and also peace-
-miary as she saved 1 dollar and 87 penni-es out of their small incomes. But she has lot of affection on her husband and before that love all previous things of her is looking very least. Hence she cutted her hair and it, and selected a good platinum for cha-
-in for him which she think that it was on-ly made for him.

But she had little afraid of him.

It is humorous as it was said be-cause

the worthy things of them.

In this way Both Della & Jim was very wise receivers and givers of the gifts. The message behind this story is a message of love and affection.

"Happiness lies not in having worthy things;

But lies in giving worthy things as gifts."

"to our beloved ones."

O. Henry made a successful attempt in showing true affection for the poor middle class families. Although there is a worthy gift of them are not most useful to them as Della cut her hair and Jim sold his watch. But the gifts are most valuable in their life because they gave with love.

And God has doesn't made men & women
